

Where Are the Signers?
50,000,000 Degrees
100 Calls Per Second
No Chinese Rum Wall
By Arthur Brisbane

THE shows of yesterday, Le preux Charlemagne, and other things, vanished, interested Villan.

Where are the signers of the Declaration of Independence? Where are their descendants? What are they doing?

You see Jefferson's nervous signature between Richard Henry Lee's and Benjamin Harrison's, and Franklin's fancy flourish, above John Morton's compact writing.

There stand the names, more than 50 of them, on the faded paper. Where are the men who signed? Whither have they gone? Where are their descendants? What important things are they doing?

Our great names vanish quickly from memory unless great fortunes make them "important," even though holders of the name no longer amount to anything.

In England you see, high in state, the descendants of the man that was Elizabeth's prime minister.

Which name of the signers, except that of John Adams, stands out, conspicuous, now, only 153 years from the signing?

In "Little America," where Bay, in the Antarctic, waits for spring and the sun to return, the temperature on July 3 dropped to 44 below zero, and men "could hear their breath freezing" as it left them.

Sixty-four below, and 130 above zero, we call "terrible temperatures." These figures emphasize the marvelous protection and safety we enjoy on this civilized earth.

On our journey to heaven, once we leave our atmosphere, we will endure, for millions of light years, the "absolute nothingness" of the void, of 40 below zero.

When it was passed to our sun, we shall need to be prepared for heat from a furnace reaching 10,000,000 degrees of heat, centrifuge.

Read Sir James H. Jeans' magnificent book, "Astrophysics and Cosmogony," and learn, in the chapters on Gaseous Stars, and "The Source of Stellar Energy," what differences in temperature are possible.

After you have read that book and waited feebly through the 400 pages, chiefly of abstract mathematical formulae, you will find it hard to return to the happy level of average ignorance.

The Atlantic telephone company, through its telephone, tells EVERY SECOND where New York city's 1,750,000 telephones are.

Men read that, and pass on, taking for granted the greater scientific miracle and industrial achievement.

It calls average only two miles, from telephone to telephone, the statement means that human thought and words are carried without effort 17,500,000 miles in a month.

It means that all the trans-pacific facilities could not carry to and from the millions that, without moving, meet and talk on the telephone.

The public owes a debt to industrial genius and industry's efficiency that work such wonders.

Secretary Mellon says the Treasury Department never planned a seven-foot barred wire fence along Canada's border to keep out rum. The Secretary is not practical for that nonsense.

China tried the fence plan 2200 years ago, starting 300 B. C., the Great Wall, 1500 miles long, couldn't keep out Genghis Khan, or other energetic Tartars.

And no seven-foot wire fence could hold back the American brand of bootleggers, rum-runners and hijackers. Today they would cut through it, fly over it, or tunnel under it.

Report Mellon to Leave Cabinet

HINGES ON HOOVER'S POLICIES

Treasury Chief Said to Disagree With Some Appointments and Changes

Washington, July 5 (INS)—There was a growing belief in the capital today that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon may not remain long in President Hoover's Cabinet.

Persistent rumors have been circulated of the impending resignation of Mellon and just as persistently they have been denied.

However, to some political observers it was apparent that Mellon could not occupy the same relative position of power in the Hoover administration as in those of Harding and Coolidge.

Several instances which would indicate that Mellon has followed advice other than his Secretary of the Treasury have developed since the new administration took office and have given rise to the feeling.

Spanish Fliers Fought Death in Angry Seas

EXCLUSIVE

THIS is the second chapter of one of the most thrilling and dramatic tales of the air and sea ever told. It is by Maj. Ramon Franco, commander of the Spanish Scapho Navalium.

MADRID, July 5.—We had been flying some time when we decided to change our course a little and point for the south, trying to get a glimpse of the small islands that go to make up the outlying parts of the Azores group.

The flight should have lasted 16 hours, and we should have landed at Horta at 9 o'clock by our chronometer, which was Spanish time, or 6 o'clock Azores time.

We abet the moon, getting our reckoning, and figured our position to be 37.35 north latitude. Later on we reckoned our position again, and we calculated ourselves to be 26 miles south of the course we had plotted.

Before dawn, through the clouds, we could see in the dim light some peaks which might have been part of the Azores, although the time figured for our landing was still far distant.

The peaks seemed so real that we had not the slightest doubt that they were mountains on the Azores—and toward them we pointed the nose of our plane in order to make sure of them—but they were only

NEW TITLE FOR HELEN WILLS

California Girl Wins Wimbledon Crown for 3d Time by Beating Helen Jacobs

By F. A. WRAY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Wimbledon, Eng., July 5.—Playing in true championship style, Miss Helen Wills successfully defended her singles title in the Wimbledon championships today by defeating her fellow-Californian, Helen Jacobs, 6-1, 6-2, in a stirring match.

Although Miss Jacobs, who made the first all-American final in Wimbledon's history possible, gave the world's premier women player a glorious battle, it was all in vain.

"Queen Helen" was unbeatable today. She was superb in every department of the game. She used every stroke in her versatile bag with deadly effectiveness to prevent "Helen the Second" from being suggested by a mingled variety of smashing drives, perfectly timed placement shots down the baselines and an invulnerable backhand.

Both players received a tremendous ovation when the match was over. Miss Wills for again winning the championship, Miss Jacobs for a glorious battle.

It was necessary for the firemen to clear out the bonfire, resulting in a delay of more than 15 minutes before work could be obtained.

Meanwhile the flames, fanned by a stiff breeze, were roaring

Mob Routs Police on the First Trolley Run in New Orleans Since Tuesday

New Orleans, July 5.—After a night of fire-handling and gang fighting between strike sympathizers and workers, in which one man was probably fatally injured, and more than 200 were slightly hurt, efforts to operate the first strike car since last Tuesday failed utterly today.

The strike, under heavy guard of police armed with pistols and sawed off shotguns, was stoned and routed to the car barn.

Heavy police details were assigned to the car barn, where several hundred strikers were brought into New Orleans last night, are housed.

BRICKBAT STORMING AND PISTOL FIRING in the riot in the Canal area, the Arabelle brand freed 71 arrests, but the men were freed of charges of disturbing the peace.

Joseph Morfieri, a striker, who was in the crowd, was the one who during the general battle, was not captured.

The disturbance at the Arabelle brand was quelled by an army of police who emerged from the area after a 45-minute round with rioters and police officers.

CLAIMS UNFAIRNESS Public service officials decided to dump the 30 cars under test, rather than risk opening the boxes.

The flame was fanned into huge proportions shortly after union officials transmitted in public service officials the rejection of the ultimatum by the company that the strikers must return to work by 8 p. m. under test.

CHANGES IN POLICY Among the first decided changes in the policy with the Soviet Union of the Hoover administration was publicity for income and corporation tax reduction.

"For God's Sake, Help Us!"

Message from citizens of International Falls, Minn., to President Hoover.

WE have had more than nine years of prohibition. In these nine years we have made the manufacture, sale and transportation of alcoholic beverages a crime. But we did not make drinking a crime because it was recognized that drinking could not be made criminal; and great numbers of our people, knowing that drinking is not criminal, apparently cannot be convinced that the sale and transportation of liquor is in fact criminal. Of course, this is no excuse, but it is nevertheless a fact.

Everyone knows what has happened. We eliminated legal liquor control. In its place we gained unregulated moonshining, rum-running and bootlegging, which found waiting an immensely profitable market. Naturally, this business was taken over by gangsters and gunmen and, in some instances, men who had been regarded as reputable citizens, all attracted by quick and easy wealth.

In our efforts to maintain the prohibition law as it stands today, we have made more severe the penalties for its violation. We have given more and more latitude and more and more money to officials in the attempt at enforcement. We have read, day after day, how they break into homes without warrants, how they tap telephone wires, how they have engaged young girls as spies in speakeasies and rookhouses. We have read how these Government agents have incited prohibition crimes in order to make arrests.

We have learned how they shoot, recklessly, wantonly, cruelly, when there is no justification in law, in common sense or in morals for shooting. We have seen innocent people killed merely on the suspicion that they carried liquor in automobiles. We have seen communities terrorized by such lawlessness of prohibition agents and we have heard from one of them in Minnesota, where a law-abiding citizen was murdered by prohibition agents, the agonized cry of the people to the President: "For God's sake, help us!"

How much longer will the people of the United States be indifferent to the ghastly failure of the present prohibition law? When will the law be so altered that those of us who believe in prohibition or temperance will find it possible to uphold and live up to it?

How much longer will our public officials say that the "root of the evil" is the international criminal who brings liquor into the United States?

International rum-running is not the "root" of the evil. It is only a flower of the evil. The "root" of it is the Volstead law as it now stands, which in nine years has grown to a tree bearing the bitter fruits of moonshining, bootlegging, poison whiskey, drug addiction, corruption of enforcement officers and murders, many of innocent people, in greater numbers than in any other civilized country.

When, in the name of common sense, will our elected officials, who know of the futility of prohibition in its present form, develop enough courage to start a reconsideration of it? They have the opportunity now during the hearings of the crime study commission, which was appointed by the President.

The hearings of this body should be confined first to prohibition. The public and the press. Then we will be informed quickly through testimony from all parts of the country whether or not the Volstead law as it stands can be made to work.

We will learn that it must be changed into a law that is more desirable and workable so that all honest men and women will respect it and obey it. Then never again need any community anywhere in the United States cry out in fear of prohibition agents: "For God's sake, help us!"

AUTOMOBILES KILL MORE THAN FIREWORKS IN FOURTH OF JULY

DEATH TOLL ON HOLIDAYS SET AT 159

Drowning Head the List of 159 Holiday Fatalities With 71 Victims

Chicago, July 5 (AP)—America surrendered 159 lives to the observance of its 153rd birthday anniversary yesterday.

The Fourth of July death toll this year was 46 under 1928, the reduction being attributable chiefly to the decrease in the number of deaths from drowning and from the heat. In only one division did the 1929 fatalities exceed last year's and that was in automobile accidents with 70 this year as compared with 54 last.

Fireworks in themselves continued to play a smaller part in the nation's independence day death toll. Only seven fatalities from this cause were reported this year as compared with 11 in 1928 and two of them resulted from fireworks, factory explosion and fire July 5.

Drownings were responsible for the largest loss of life, as they were last year, but even so, there were 85 less deaths from this cause than a year ago.

Temperatures generally were lower throughout the country yesterday than on the same July 4, 1928, when 14 deaths resulted from heat. As far as the heat deaths, Associated Press showed, there was only one death yesterday from heat, and that was in Chicago.

Last year airplane accidents took four lives, whereas yesterday four were reported from this cause. The largest number of deaths reported from one place was at the municipal bathing beach at Grand Haven, Mich., where 10 persons were drowned in an undertow.

The holiday fatalities, tabulated by section of the country in which they occurred, follow:

Boston Society News and Gossip

A LONG, WINDING ROAD, NARROW AND with sudden swiftness leads to Gloucester and to Cape House, a charming studio at the edge of the water. Late this afternoon the delightful haven will be crowded with art admirers. For two hours, from four to six o'clock, Miss Margaret Fitzhugh Browne's Annapolis studio "at home" will take society down Cape Ann way, for the rich and mighty, and specially privileged welcome this invitation disdains once a year. On this occasion the famous portrait painter will "show" a portrait of Capt. Howard Blackburn, which later in the month is to be presented to the Master Mariners' Association of Gloucester by the Cruising Club of America.

SUCH OPPORTUNITY HAS MISS BROWNE afforded her friends in years gone by of privately viewing her works and to hear her relate her experiences in foreign lands. Today she will talk of her peregrinations through Mexico and accompany the interesting narrative with studies she sketched in the southern land. Covered here and there with roses in this compelling studio of Spanish type and within its confines the famous portrait painter has completed her able works. Walls of the studio, gay with many little sketches, for the most part landscapes of Beville, Granada, Algiers and Cordova, of colorful market places of the continental byways, fanciful street scenes and similar endeavor acquit the onlooker with the profound ability of this society artist.

SOCIETY WELCOMES THIS "at home" and with the joyous waiting of little ones mark off the days until that one arrives that they might visit the cozy and artistic nook of Annapolis artist and acquiescently survey all. But not alone to her art, Miss Browne devoted, for many are the times when her straight and forceful figure can be viewed across the 42-foot yacht, Sea Lady, the possession of Henry A. Wiss Woods. With this couple Miss Browne traveled through Spain recently. Among her paintings she numbers the portraits of Senator Borah, Mr. and Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, King Alfonso and Miss Eleanor Battersby. A bright and interesting group will sip tea with the artist today and thus society will honor one of its own.

WHAT A PROUD MOTHER Mrs. A. Lynda Crabtree was yesterday at the Hamilton horse show when her sweet little girl, Nancy, carried off a silver cup as token and regard of her prowess on a pony. First prize went to this blonde child and all her little friends gathered round to express their delight in her ability, else. A prettier picture than that presented by Tia Bride, three-year-old blonde, could hardly appear as she patted her pony. Led in the parade by her cousin, Miss Anne Sorrell, couldn't be found. The pair were applauded, plaudits later going to Miss Anne for herself when she rode the hurdles with distinction and won a prize in the pony class. Bayard Warren's young daughter, Lily, carried off first honors.

AN UNUSUALLY LARGE number of debuts witnessed the show and among them I saw Priscilla Deane, stunning in deep purple dress and belt with grey lizard print leather coat; Betty Hope, with black transparent turban and coat over yellow silk; Anne Richardson in red and white ensemble; Angelica Wells, in riding habit; Teal Lavee, Katharine Burrage and the sub-dub Frederick Ayers' daughter, Miss Anne Proctor Ayers; Mrs. Gordon C. Prince in knitted sport outfit and Mrs. Francis P. Sears in complete ensemble of gray watched the show eagerly. On the sidelines Mrs. Charles F. Ayer was an interested spectator propped on an automobile for a position of greater advantage. Col. Amos L. Daniels watched the show with her.

THE TUCKERMAN, PATER and three children, Richard, Phyllis and Herbert, also rode for the family honor and well they did. Such merry and bright ones, these four, always laughing, always gay. Another trio who never fail to catch my eye and keep it are Mrs. Albert C. Burrage, Jr. and her two daughters, Nancy and Cynthia. The little girls, both in green, their mother in brown ensemble, and the three of them on the grass to see all that was to be seen of the show, had many hellos sent their way, for this young matron is among the leaders of her set. One whom I saw at the Florence Crane tea, at Castle Hill, the sumptuous North Shore show place of Richard T. Crane, Jr., of Ipswich and at Hamilton, yesterday, was Mrs. Alex Shaw, this time in a lovely figured blue knit two-piece and blue hat.

WHILE THESE SMART ones followed the horses their friends of Marblehead and proximate points inter lunch baskets and heavy coats in awaiting yachts in the harbor to watch and participate in the annual regatta of the Eastern Yacht Club. A charming pair are the Coby sisters, Carolyn and Charlotte, with their attractive bandanna head ties. With young George Proctor they steamed out to the Coby yacht, where the yachting parties were: Percival and Mrs. Edwin

A. Shuman and Peggy West, Young Mrs. Shuman, Jr. (Barbara Smyth), is indeed a girl with fascinating face. In pink wool suit and white skull cap, she was a sailing figure. The seaward Emile of the club takes off today and the lavish ensemble of craft participating in the annual water journey will not return until the second week in August. Then the club will again be agog with scholastic narratives of the spell of the sea.

WHEN THE FORTUNATE ones are not sailing, a train compartment is carrying them to other points of social interest. In New York I find Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Herrick, Jr., are housed at the Ambassador Hotel. The dashing young matron will soon return to the Hub. I am told. It was only last September in New York that this couple were joined in wedlock. Also at the Ambassador were Mr. and Mrs. John Wells Farley and their daughter, Miss Louise, of Needham. But Gotham held these three for but a few days. The social life at Newport includes them now. And this choice spot of the social world will also house Miss Gloria Braggiotti before long, but not until after the wedding of her nationally heralded sister, Francesca, who tomorrow weds John Davis Lodge.

Ladies Helping Hand Opens New Camp

CAMP EMIOH, the subsidized philanthropic endeavor of the Ladies Helping Hand Auxiliary, opened its season with a registration of 129 boys, most of them from the Home for Jewish Children, Canterbury st., Dorchester. In August the girls of the home and other little girls of the city will be sent to Alfred, Me.

Thirty-two acres do the camp grounds cover and this is the first year the auxiliary opened its season. Endowment of the camp buildings are now being sought by the auxiliary and it is announced by the auxiliary's president, Mrs. A. Altman, that one endowment of $2500 has already been spoken for.

In a recent membership drive, 200 new members were added to the Helping Hand Auxiliary, an organization whose efforts are exclusively devoted to the maintenance of the Home for Jewish Children. Accompanying the boys to the camp were Mrs. Altman, Mrs. I. Ignor, Mrs. Anna Altshuler, Mrs. S. H. Cohen, Mrs. Max Lappin and Mrs. Harry Berger.

STATE FEDERATION

The General Federation public health program had its birth in the Commonwealth 29 years ago. Responsible for this statement is Mrs. Rufus P. Williams of Cambridge, proclaiming Massachusetts as the mother of the program.

"It was just 25 years ago, October 27, 1904, when the health department of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs was organized, not without trepidations, and from this grew the beginning of public health work in the general federation."

"Miss Helen A. Whittier, then president, had grave doubts in 1904 about clubwomen being willing to listen to discussion of disease at their meetings, but she allowed me to try the experiment at the federation meeting in Lowell on October 27."

"We felt it would be wise to camouflage our subject, and gave it out as 'Woman's Duty Toward the Health of the Nation.' Dr. S. A. Knapp, the eminent lung specialist of New York was our speaker, and he at once engaged the interest in terms of the dangers in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis."

"It was the most enthusiastic meeting that I have ever attended. The wonderful response of the delegates to united action against this home scourge assured Miss Whittier that her new department of health would be successful. She appointed me chairman to organize and develop the movement and I served a four-year term, 1904-1908."

"After much discussion and opposition, the resolution was adopted and I was appointed by the president, Mrs. Sarah S. Platt Decker, as chairman to organize, develop and direct the health department of the General Federation."

PRaises NEGRO PATRIOTISM

"The negro race, as represented by Crispus Attucks and his companions, shot down in the Boston Massacre on State st., were first to shed their blood in the beginning of the fight for American independence," said Rev. Simon W. D. Drew, pastor of the National Church, Washington, D. C., speaker in attendance at the Attucks Monument alongside Lafayette Hall, Boston Common.

Dr. Drew, vice-president nominee on the National Interracial Party ticket with Gen. Cooney, described as an American discrimination by race, and called segregation unfair, wherever practiced upon the negro.

"Such unfairness against colored folk is the more painful, when it is remembered that in every national American crisis eventuating in war, the negro has been the first to defend the country, 220,000 being drafted for the World War," he said.

CADDIES CALL OFF STRIKE

Ardrey-on-Hudson, July 5.—A big caddy strike scheduled at the fashionable Ardrey Club golf course on the Hudson, near Dobbs Ferry, was averted at the eleventh hour when the caddy master quelled the rebellious spirits of the young stick toilers. Officials at the club admitted that for a time it appeared the millionaire members would be lagging their own clubs.

The older boys among the half a hundred caddies resisted the action of several members in attempting to prevent the young strikers from playing ball on the Edinboro playground, a plot nearby designed for youngsters. They aimed to get back in the millionaire's net vulnerable spot their golf game.

Borett Smith, caddy master, called a meeting and explained that the club officials had no control over the disputed ball ground and no official interest in the incident. Despite, though several members sympathized with the younger ball-playing element, the strike was then called off.

Calles Bantered By Vatican Organ On His Trip Abroad

Vatican City, July 5.—Under the heading "Calles Changes Air," the newspaper Osservatore Romano, the publicity organ of the Vatican, commented on his projected trip to Europe, saying:

"The climate where the breath of religious tolerance has just begun, is not for him. . . He who has done so much for this new, serene life of the nation and above all, for the respect of all consciences and faiths, instead of remaining to enjoy the reward of his labors, puts the ocean between himself and the fatherland. He is more than a Cincinnatus."

Thompson Healthy

New York, July 5.—Relative of William Boyce Thompson, reported in dispatches from Naples as being ill on his yacht, said today that late advice were that he was in good health.

DRAG POND FOR YOUTH'S BODY

Sudbury, July 5.—Police were grappling today for the body of Louis Krolinsky, 25, of 53 Maverick st., Chelsea, who went out in a row boat in Wylie's Pond with two other Chelsea youths and was drowned when he jumped into 12 feet of water with the intention of swimming to the shore, more than 100 feet away. He sank after only a dozen strokes.

His two companions, John Runstein of 55 Crescent ave. and Hyman Kaplan of 58 Maverick st., also had no knowledge how to swim. They showed their cars down in the water in an attempt to assist their friend, but it was too late. When Krolinsky failed to come in the surface, his friends rowed ashore and spread the alarm.

Chief of Police E. W. Hall, assisted by officers Henry C. Burr and F. J. Elser, and Sergeant Fitzgerald and Officer Foley of the Framingham State Police, searched for the body.

ENGLISH YOUTHS have been rescued from a boat full of coffee, tea, and other foodstuffs, according to a dispatch from London which is published in next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

AFTER EVERY MEAL—FOR LIFE

We don't mean to imply that the bride's cooking requires a digestive aid—

But WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT affords just that taste of mint we all like after meals.

And besides, it whitens teeth—sweetens breath—helps digestion and calms the nerves.

Freshens the mouth after smoking.

GETS $750,000 SHE HAS NO USE FOR

"What difference does it make if it's ten cents or ten million dollars one leaves you if you haven't any use for it?"

This is how Mrs. Sarah E. Heath, 75-year-old widow of the late Dr. Joseph W. Heath of 19 Ayon st., Wakefield, feels about the $750,000 left to her by her brother, Charles F. Heath, for many years the guiding genius of the Spaulding & Company jewelry firm of Chicago and Paris.

Green died last February in Chicago, at the age of 38 years. He was a widower and left no children. His only relative was Mrs. Heath, his sister in Wakefield. A few days ago his representatives, the Continental & Illinois Trust Bank of Chicago, completed its accounting of his fortune, and then notified his sister that it amounted to a little more than three-quarters of a million dollars and that it was all here to do with it as she pleased.

"But," asks the sister, "what can it mean to me when I haven't any use for it?"

Richards, she said, can only be measured in terms of health, comfort and happiness, and 100 million dollars or a Russian Rouble, can't affect or have any bearing on life.

Episcopal Church Conference Ends

The Wellesley conference for Episcopal church workers will close today after a successful meeting in which more than 500 men and women from all parts of the world participated.

A meeting of the Fellowship Association in Tower court and a general meeting in Houghton chapel were the outstanding events of yesterday's session. At the chapel meeting, Bishop H. J. Michell of Atlanta, Ga., summed up the spiritual significance of the conference, and the Rev. J. Thayer Addison of Episcopal theologic school in Cambridge discussed the situation in China.

According to her philosophy, "Perhaps you'll understand me a little better," she said, "I explain that all my life I've lived modestly and even were I 40 years younger I would continue to do so despite the sudden receipt of this fortune. I'm happy here in my little home. I'm having those little things that go to make one comfortable and happy. I've got a nice radio and I can afford to buy the newspapers every day and a good book now and then. What more do I want? What more could this fortune give me?"

DUSTIN FARNUM DIES AT 53

New York, July 5.—Dustin Farnum, elder of two brothers whose careers on the stage and screen gained the applause of millions, died in Post Graduate Hospital of a kidney ailment from which he had long suffered. He was 53 years old.

With him up until the time of his death was his brother, William Farnum, also a favorite on the boards and the silver screen. The products of small New England towns, both entered the theater when American drama was the heroic, romantic stage and both quickly rose to fame.

William Farnum, younger than his brother by two years, is still active in his profession, but Dustin was forced to retire by illness about a year ago.

Dustin Farnum was a few years ago one of the country's greatest matinee idols and the popularity he gained on Broadway followed him into motion pictures.

The height of his career came a little less than two decades ago. One of his most famous roles was as Col. Morrison in "The Little Rebel" in 1911. In this play he costarred with his brother.

Youth Slain Because of Wrist Watch

Paterson, N. J., July 5.—Three boys are faced with the possibility of murder charges in connection with the death of a Paterson youth, apparently by a kick in the chest. Physicians at St. John's Hospital attributed his death to suffocation through injury or breakage of the windpipe. An autopsy will be held today to determine the cause of death.

The boy was John Nolan, 15, of 105 Jackson st. His mother, Mrs. Ethel Nolan, a widow, who works in a silk mill, gave him the wrist watch last Friday on the occasion of his graduation from St. John's parochial school here.

The boy was walking along Main st. when one of three loitering boys called out "Look at the shiny watch." According to the police one of them seized it.

The Government allows them traveling expenses at the rate of five cents per mile from their homes to the camps.

STOCK MARKET

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor

State stock brokers generally expect an active stock market to continue through the summer months. They point for partial confirmation of the correctness of this belief to the fact that additional new issues and bonds are being listed in New York at the rate of 15 billions of dollars every six months. Brokers' loans, by the way, show a gain of only $22,000,000 against a 1928 listing already at the 13-billion total mentioned.

City Collector George M. Johnson is mailing the 1929 motor vehicle sales tax bills, as levied under the new law. Probably the receipt of these bills will reveal to many people for the first time the enormous sum of $1,000,000,000 which they are supposed to come. We have found many people who expect to receive them in the near future. The problem of automobile sales tax is a new one for the state. It is a new plan will work out better than the old.

Automotive taxation plans differ from the past in that the imposition of a uniform plan has not yet been advanced. Taxation of automobiles via the gasoline tax is also a change. The problem of gasoline taxes has not, however, stirred up the big manufacturers, and as long as an eventual solution.

Edwin M. Stark, vice-president and director of the Federal Reserve Bank, has been elected to the board of directors of the Brookline National Bank, which has been reorganized under the new Federal Reserve Act.

"The outlook is brighter than most people realize for a resumption of sugar and better security markets and it is our belief that the market conditions are sound, sound ration earnings for the near future are exceptionally favorable and the trade outlook indicates a continuation of good business for the balance of 1929." J. R. Van der Vliet, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

"It is gratifying to note that the sales of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange for the first five months of this year, or 122,575,802 shares, is a record for the same period of the last year and a gain over the similar period in previous years of 24,440,000 shares, or 24.8 percent. In 1927, an increase of 318,825,993 shares compared with 1926, or 327,900,133 shares compared with 1925.

"Our canvass of the financial district leads us to believe that for the 12 months of 1929 will prove to be one of the best years in the history of the business, industrial world and the U. S. market."

W. R. Cline & Co. announce that James E. Cline has been elected as a member of the firm. The Cline firm is a member of the New York Stock Exchange, Associated Banks and member of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Jackman & Curtis have completed the following table of stock prices of Electric Bond & Share rights as of July 3, 1929, and 1928, and 1927, and 1926, and 1925, and 1924, and 1923, and 1922, and 1921, Love Declaration and What Comes Next in This Tense Story

What Has Gone Before
Nancy Hollenbeck, though young and beautiful, is poor. Her mother, of a socially accepted family, married a poor man. She warns Nancy against this "mistake." Nancy, becoming cynical, gives up handsome Mat Tully and begins an affair with Jack Beamer, married to wealth. He plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a trip to Yellowstone, Nancy meets Roger Decatur, a ranger, who falls in love with her. Nancy tells him she will only marry for wealth. She prepares to leave the mountain camp and rejoin her Aunt Ellie and sister Louise at the hotel in the valley.

(New Go On With the Story)

NANCY did all her packing in a few, wide sweeping, tumbling shoes, soiled riding shirts and creased crepe de chine into bags with an abandon that soothed her. Nearly everything was ruined anyway. She had walked on rocky roads with frail kid slippers, sat on damp, grassy banks in delicate stockings with regal indifference. All to impress Roger Decatur.

She would be better off than I am. I'm sure of it. Nancy had long since decided not to be a patronizing employer's servant, like Mama and Miss Craig, nor happy like Aunt Ellie. She would be charming like

WHOOPEE LANDS PAIR IN COURT

Franklin, N. H., July 5.—State's Attorney of Nashua, Mass., pleaded not guilty in Franklin Municipal court to a charge of disorderly conduct. He was accused of exploding the crackers in the city hall mail box and destroying mail. Lemuel Souther of Brookline, Mass., pleaded not guilty to illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor. The young man was charged at St. Paul's School Camp in Danbury, and with five others came here to celebrate the Fourth. The police claim a five-gallon jug of cider was found in their car. Judge Clifford released each in $1000 bail for appearance.

Change Propeller on Ocean Plane

On Orchard Beach, Md., July 5.—Three tests of the plane Pathfinder were made by the crew, Capt. Lewis A. Tenny and Roger Q. Williams, with the plane circling over this shore. But when returning to Port Republic it was found that the propeller had made it inadvisable to land on the beach here. The propeller was changed after Williams and Tenny had decided that a slight advance in speed would be gained. There is no prospect that the plane will take off today, since the two men wish to make a full trial run before the departure.

LIQUOR WORTH $2,000,000 STOLEN

Medicinal Whiskey Taken From Chicago Warehouse; Colored Water Substituted

Chicago, July 5.—With investigation of the theft of 50,000 gallons of bonded whiskey, valued at $2,000,000, from a government warehouse, under way today, it was learned that more than 20 prohibition employees in the Chicago area are under suspicion. At the same time, action was being taken to condemn raw alcohol and colored waters that had been replaced for the stolen whiskey. Dist. Atty. George E. Q. Johnson, in charge of the investigation, today consulted with enforcement authorities at Washington. It was not announced how the loss would be adjusted as between the owners and the Government, but possibly the storers of the liquor, after it is libeled in court can collect full value from the Government without much legal procedure.

The warehouse is the Government concentration point for medicinal liquor in the Middle West. It contains the product of 30 or 40 distilleries throughout the country. Government trials were said to have shown that 800 cases of bonded whiskey had been stolen and the bottles refilled with water. The warehouse contains 2000 to 4000 cases.

A report sent to Washington by investigating agents was said to have contained the charge that 16 barrels were tapped and 621 actual condemnations.

The extent of the thefts would be the report said, that the operations of those under suspicion continued over a period of nearly a year.

Prohibition officials at Frankfurt, Ky., are reported to have refused to accept 121 barrels of whiskey sent from the warehouse, when it was learned they contained colored water. This shipment now remains in a loading platform at Frankfurt.

Some of the barrels which had been tampered with in Chicago is said to be for medicinal use, according to the report.

North Station Business Folk Answer Question and Pose for Picture

THE QUESTION
Do you think a vehicle under construction would infringe traffic laws at the North Station?

CHARLES M. MCGOWAN, agent, I am opposed to an underground tunnel for motor-driven cars, running along Causeway street, between the North Station and the city hall. I don't believe in such a tunnel here. It would help this business, but it is being formulated to use the overhead trolley system. The structure for vehicle traffic, if it is discontinued by the railway company, trucks and automobiles would then pass over ramps at either end of the upper level and leave the street clear for pedestrians or for machines needed in business in this vicinity.

EDWARD S. LAVERTY, store manager—An underground tunnel for vehicle traffic is a very serious consideration. Its construction would hurt business in the district. Causeway street was recently widened, and auto traffic must pass along either side as it does now. It is a very serious consideration. There is a safety question which is a good one.

Severe Wind and Heavy Seas May Have Been Too Much for Turner

Some concern was felt today for the safety of David G. Turner, 23, whose 16-foot open boat has not been reported since it headed past Boston Light yesterday on the first leg of a daring transatlantic crossing. At the hours passed without his having been sighted by Coast Guard craft and lookouts, there was increasing anxiety in some quarters an apprehension that yesterday a sail may have swamped him or his boat off his course. Alona in his small craft with a compass, a pair of oars, an outboard motor and a "log-of-millions" sail, Turner was due to m
